Saint-Gobain: a new service offer to improve quality of life at work

Saint-Gobain is launching a new service offer in France, KANDU, for businesses seeking to enhance the quality of their work spaces. Now they can benefit from Saint-Gobain's expertise in building sciences and its Multi-Comfort approach to improve acoustics, interior air, thermal comfort, luminosity and layout of their premises, thanks to relevant technical solutions. KANDU specializes in helping companies create workplaces that are pleasant, healthy and attractive.

KANDU's turn-key service consists of a three-step approach:

A comprehensive and precise assessment

Using a method patented by Saint-Gobain researchers, KANDU performs an assessment by measuring:

- a) various parameters of the indoor environment (acoustics, air quality, thermal comfort and luminosity) using a simple, autonomous connected device
- b) the impressions of occupants, collected via a digital platform.

Recommendations and technical solutions

Customers can access this data, kept in a secure account, in real time. The data is analyzed by a team of KANDU experts (engineers, architects and designers) that assesses the situation, proposes technical solutions and offers practical advice on improvements.

Customized support

KANDU also provides its customers with customized support, implementing the solutions they have chosen while keeping business disruption to a minimum.
